SITUATION MORE ALARMING.

NO COMMUNICATION WITH PEKIN

After Great Effort to Obtain the Viceroy's Permission, a Train Load of French, English and German Soldiers Leave for Pekin—Some Kind of Interference Necessary—Russia Has Another Pretext for Landing Troops—Empress Fled to Russian Legation.?

By wire to the Telegram,

Tien-Tsin, June 11.—Telegraphic communication between here and Pekin was interrupted yesterday morning. A special train left last evening with thirty British troops to guard Tong Shang. That number of men is considered inadequate if troubles arises. At Tong Shung all of the northern China railways will be at a standstill.

Owing to the difficulty of obtaining the viceroy's permission for a third special train to start for Pekin the foreign troops occupied the cars, whereupon the Chinese pulled the engine driver off and ran away with his locomotive. The crowd tried to pull up the track but troops cleared the rabble away at the point of the bayonet and seized the engine. Learning of that the viceroy granted permission and the train left at five fifteen, with about five hundred soldiers, made up of three hundred and fifty Germans, a hundred British and the remainder of French troops.

THE EMPRESS SEEKS RUSSIAN HELP?

London, June 11.—A special despatch from Tien Tsin says that it is reported that the Dowager Empress has fled to the Russian legation at Pekin

THE SITUATION SATURDAY.

London, June 9.—The situation in China tonight appears distinctly graver. The destruction of a Russian chapel at Tung Tingan has provided Russia with the desired pretext to land more troops. The dispatch from St. Petersburg this afternoon, that the government is resolved, if the dangerous situation in China continues, to take immediate military action to repress the anti-foreign movement, at the same time declaring that it has no intention of disassociating itself from the joint action of the powers may be garded as a semi-official utterance, meaning that if there is any hesitancy on the part of the powers, Russia will act alone. All reports agree that the Boxer movement is spreading. The report is confirmed that the French agents at Mong Tse and Yun Nan Fu have been compelled to retire, and this shows that the ferment has reached southwestern China and has provoked France into taking active steps. Sir Claude McDonald, British minister, has wired the British consul at Shanghai confirming the reported outrages and the fact that throne and government have been actuated by a secret sympathy with the Boxer movement, which the government has ample power to suppress if it so desired, His dispatch, however, is in no way of an alarming nature.

The latest Tien-Tsin dispatches saying that the Dowager Empress has appointed anti-foreign generals with the pretended mission to suppress the Boxers makes it impossible to doubt that the time has arrived for energetic action. It is expected that the British government will utilize the Chinese regiment which has been in training at Wei-Hai-Wei, as it would be dangerous to remove the garrison from Hong Kong at the present moment.

A special dispatch from Shanghai, dated June 9, says: "The Tsung Li Yamen has protested to the ministers against the presence of such a large number of foreign forces, asserting that it cannot be only for the protection of the legations, but for the establishment of a garrison in the capital of an independent friendly State. The answer which the foreign ministers returned to this protest is unknown.

"The American mission at Pei Tang Chow was destroyed yesterday, but the missionaries fled to a place of safety. It is reported that the Viceroy Chi-Li has resigned.

"It is proposed to bring Li Hung Chang back from the south, but Prince Kang Yi proposes to give the post to the infamous Li Ping Hong, the former governor of Shan Tung.

"Pao Ting Fu is burning. The Tien-Tsin railway has finally ceased to be operated. All the English missionaries are encamped inside the legation.

A Detailed Report of the Doings of the Boxers.

New York, June 9.—The first detailed report of the doings of the Boxers was received by the Presbyterian board today, in a letter from Rev. Horace W. Houlding, of the South China mission, at Lin Chang, providence of Shan Tung. He quotes a letter to United States Consul Conger by Dr. Authur S. Smith, as follows:

"The Boxers appeared at the village in a force represented as one and two hundred, of whom perhaps thirty were cavalry. They divided into squads, one party making for our chapel and school house, the doors of which they broke in and proceeded to loot the place, carrying off everything, pulling out window frames, and burning them with the doors for fuel. A commodious house owned by the mission and used as our headquarters was also looted and wrecked. One party pillaged the house of the helper. The family escaped over the wall, a pupil in our girls' school having a narrow escape from capture. A large sum of money and a great quantity of household effects were carried away."

From Fighting to Preaching.

A revolution has taken place in Duplin, Greensboro's disreputable "East Side." Usually the police officers have their hands full looking after the belligerent residents of that locality Saturday night and Sunday, but yesterday everything was as quiet as a Sabbath day should be. A colored preacher has secured an empty dwelling in which services are conducted, once during the week and twice on Sunday. The officers think this has something to do with the change and only hope it will continue.

Governor Oates Kills a Negro.

Montgomery, Ala., June 9—Ex-Governor W. C. Oates shot and killed a negro man at his residence in this city tonight. General Oates heard a pistol shot in his kitchen, and on investigation found his cook lying dead, killed by a negro. The negro, whose name is not known, started towards the Governor, pistol in hand. Not paying any attention to warnings not to advance, Governor Oates shot and killed him.

On to Raleigh.

The eastbound trains today have been crowded with members of the Legislature going to Raleigh to attend the adjourned session, which covenes tomorrow. The Democratic members went today in order to be present at a caucus tonight, when the work of the extra session will be mapped out.

It is generally understood that the Legislature will adjourn the latter part of the week, probably to meet again in July.

North Carolina's Poet Here.

Mr. Henry Jerome Stockard, North Carolina's popular and widely known poet, was here yesterday on his way to Graham, where he will spend some time at his old home. For the past few years Mr. Stockard has been engaged in educational work at Fredericksburg and Locust Dale, Va., but has recently accepted a position in the faculty of Peace Institute, at Raleigh.

North Carolinians generally will gladly welcome this gifted son back to his native State.

Malicious Prosecution.

The case against I. E. White, the principal prosecuting witness in the retailing cases recently sent on to court, was heard before Justice Pritchett Saturday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. There was no evidence to show his gilt. 'Squire Pritchett decided that it was a case of malicious prosecution and dismissed the warrant, taxing the prosecutor with the costs.

A Well Dressed But Unknown Woman, Jumped into the Whirlpool this Morning.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Buffalo, June 11.—A despatch from Niagara Falls says that a woman whose identity is not yet established committed suicide this morning, jumping into the whirlpool rapids from the platform on the incline railroad on the Canadian side. She was well-dressed and apparently a woman of refinement

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT.

The Slander Suit Ended—Gets Four Months on the Roads.

Just before the adjournment of court Saturday afternoon the jury brought in a verdict in the slander suit which had been on trial for a day and a half, finding the defendant, Philippi, guilty. When the verdict was announced the defendant, who was under bond, slipped out of the court room and has not since been seen.

The greater part of this morning was consumed in trying a case against Seymour Jeffreys, charged with an affray. He was found guilty. Judgment was supended on payment of costs.

For carrying concealed weapons Hugh Gibson, an inky black negro, was sentenced to the county roads for four months. Hugh is the negro who caused trouble at the depot some days ago. He had a gun and a pair of knucks on his person and threatened to use them on anybody who came near him.

Hon. R. D. Gilmer in Town.

Hon. R. D. Gilmer, Democratic nominee for attorney general, spent a few hours here this morning on his return to his home in Waynesville. He has been campaigning in the east and spoke Saturday at Manteo, Dare county, in the extreme eastern part of the State.

To the Telegram Mr. Gilmer stated that the work of the campaign is progressing very satisfactorily. In the east, he said, the white people are organized and at work for the amendment, confident of victory.

Revival Services.

Revival services at the South Greensboro Baptist church were begun last night. A large congregation was present and considerable interest was manifested. Rev. J. L. Lane, of Summerfield, arrived today and will assist the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hackney, throughout the week. There will be preaching at 8 o'clock each evening The public generally is cordially invited to attend.

Prof. Pearson Enters Journalism.

Mr. T. Gilbert Pearson, professor of biology and geology in Guilford College, has become business manager of that most excellent periodical, the North Carolina Journal of Education, published in this city and edited by Prof. P. P. Claxton. Mr. Pearson was educated at Guilford College and the University of North Carolina and is a very bright young man.

Cut Both Legs Off.

In a fight in Graham Saturday afternoon, in which an axe played an important part, a negro cut off another negro's legs, making a clean job of it. While a physician was being called to attend the wounded man, his assailant escaped. It was thought he came to Greensboro, but the officers were not notified until late yesterday afternoon, when he had probably moved on.

Big Returns.

Papers received by the last Australian mail gives particulars of the final work of winding up a syndicate whose profits are probably the largest on record. In June, 1893, ten Adelaide men subscribed $75 each to form the Coolgardie Prospecting Syndicate, which sent mining prospectors to West Australia. Several rich properties, including the Great Boulder, the Associated Gold Mines, the Ivanhoe and the Lake View were discovered. For these the syndicate received in cash $7,500,000, and a number of shares which, if capitalized at present, would realize about $45,000,000.

Schreiner to Resign.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Capetown, June 9. — Delayed in Transmission. — The meeting of the Afrikander Bund is still in session. Hofmeyer, although not a member of parliament, is attending the meeting and using his entire influence against Schreiner. Onsland, the leading Dutch newspaper, urges the party to show a united front, as it says they have friends in England whose hands must be strengthened. It is reported that Schreiner has given notice of his intention to resign.

A COMING TOWN.

Sanford Has Three Big Railroad Systems.

Sanford enjoys the distinction of being the only town in North Carolina which is entered by the three big railroad systems of the State, namely, the Southern, Atlantic Coast Line and the Seaboard Air Line. The town is supplied with water by a well 515 feet deep. Cotton mills, furniture factories and lumber mills and banking facilities, taken with its railroads, give Sanford an excellent chance for growth in wealth and population.

Shot While Shooting "Craps."

While engaged in the Southern negro's ideal game, "craps," yesterday morning two Winston negroes became engaged in a dispute over the result of a game. To emphasize his remarks, one of the negroes pulled a gun and shot his partner, inflicting a painful wound in the hip. Accompained by Allie Tuttle, a negro who had committed a robbery the night before, he made his escape. The two negroes came in the direction of Greensboro and the officers of this city were notified to look out for them. So far nothing has been seen of them.

Mrs. Jones's View.

"I see that the author of 'The Man With the Hoe' is accused of plagiarism now," observed Jones, dropping his morning paper on the floor and turning his attention to the buckwheat cakes.

"It is something awful," replied Mrs. Jones, with the severest kind of an expression on her face, "the way these men go around the country marrying innocent women."

"Plagiarism, said Jones, loftily, "means a literary thief."

'Stole some books, did he?"

"No, no; he simply pirated ideas. They claim that the girl wrote the poem several years ago."

"I don't see what they want to bring it up against her now for. She may have been young at the time and be trying to live it down, but no one is safe in these days of yellow journals." And Mrs. Jones helped herself to another biscuit as she continued to look severely at her husband, as if it was all his fault.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

So Restful.

"So you like my play, Miss Wilbur?" said Penright, with a self-satisfied smirk.

"Very much," replied the young woman. "The waits between the acts are so long and restful."—Harper's Bazar.

Pig Iron and Hog Iron.

"Negroes are sometimes very original in their dealings with white men," said the foreman of a North Memphis iron foundry. "A couple of negroes were unloading pig iron for me the other day, and as it comes in pretty good-sized trunks one chunk is a heavy load. One of the negroes came to a lump which was twice the usual size, being two chunks that had run together. He stopped work the minute he caught sight of it.

" 'What are you stopping for?' I yelled. Pick it up!' "

" 'Boss, I doan mine onloadin' pig iron,' said he, 'but when it comes to hog iron I quits.' "—Memphis Evening Scimitar.

MISSIONARIES BEG FOR AID.

PRESIDENT M'KINLFY ASKED TO ACT

A Cablegram Says That the Methodist People Are in Great Danger and That Native Christians Have Already Been Murdered---Dr. Woods Asks the President For Such Aid as He Can Give.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New York, June 11—Methodist missionaries in China today sent an appeal to President McKinley for aid. The appeal was dated at Pekin, and was probably the last message sent out before the wires were cut. The message was sent to headquarters in this city and was as follows:

"Massacre of native Christians situation critical. Press Washington.

FRANDIS D. GAMEWELL."

Rev. Dr. Leonard, missionary secretary of the Methodist church, at once telegraphed the President, transmitting the cablegram, and adding, "this means that our people are in great peril and greatly need such protection as our government can afford."

THE SITUATION YESTERDAY.

London, June 11.—A dispatch from Pekin, dated June 9th, says: The situation is growing steadily more alarming, the missionary compounds all having been abandoned last evening. Forty American and English missionaries are gathered together at the American Methodist mission, surrounded by three hundred native pupils whom it was impossible to send to their homes. They are waiting, with a few revoivers, guarded by 10 American marines for reinforcements to take them to the coast. A missionaay who has returned from the country to the east says that the populace are asserting that they must have a new emperor.

New Recruits.

The latest recruits Capt. Z. B. Vance has enlisted here for service in the United States army are Joseph B. Bradford, of Newport News, Va., and Emmet F Inman, of Westfield, N. C. They left Saturday night for Tybee Island, Ga., where they will be assigned to Battery C, Second Artillery.

Recruiting in Greensboro is a little slow just now, thought Capt. Vance says it is good at the Charlotte station.

Mr. Ruskin Dictated.

We have not seen it mentioned in the numerous notices of Mr. Ruskin that have appeared, yet many may be interested to learn that he was fond of dictating his writing. He used to walk up and down and dictate his long sentences without pause or hesitation, not scrupling to indulge in numerous asides upon quite other topics, which, however, did not in the least confuse the thread of his thought or divert his mind from the subject on hand. After the portion he had dictated was on paper, he used to go through the manuscript carefully and often make extensive alterations.

Bees Are Strong.

Observations made to test this question showed that bees can carry with ease twice their weight in honey. Several bees were caught as they returned to their hives laden with honey, and, after inclosing them in a little box, they were carefully weighed. When the bees unloaded their honey they were again caught, placed in the same box and weighed a second time. This experiment showed that the bees when laden weighed three times as much as when empty. It was therefore proved that a bee can carry twice its own weight in honey, and can fly very long distances with that weight.—Exchange.

AFTER MAYOR VAN WYCK.

EXAMINED ON THE WITNESS STAND.

Says That He Owned 4,200 Shares of the American Ice and Bought it Because it Was Paying a Good Rate---Borrowed Money From the Garfield National Bank. Of Course Knew Nothing About the Company's Doings.

New York June 9.—Mayor Van Wyck was called to the witness chair today in the proceedings against the mayor, the dock commissioners and Chas. W. Morse, president of the American Ice Company, which were begun some time ago before Supreme Court Justice Gaynor, in Brooklyn. These proceedings are designed to show what, if any, connection exists between certain city officials and the ice company. The mayor testified that he owned 4,200 shares of the stock of the American ice, which he had obtained from President Morse, some of it in exchange for Knickerbocker Ice Company, of Maine.

"Did you purchase all this stock subsequently to becoming mayor of the city?" Mr. Van Wyck was asked.

"I did."

"Why did you purchase stock in the Knickerbocker Company?"

"Because it was paying 4 per cent. on common, and 6 per cent on preferred stock."

When he made the purchase he did not know that the American Ice Company intended to do business in New York city. He had paid for his stock with a check on the Garfield National Bank, and borrowed 75 per cent. of the purchase money.

"When you made the purchase it was agreed that you should borrow from the bank?"

"It was."

"Was there any guarantee to protect you against loss on that stock?"

"No."

"Have you paid back the bank?"

"I have."

"Are you accustomed to such financial transactions?"

"I am."

For the money borrowed the mayor said he gave four, five and six months notes. He has paid two notes for $75,000 each, and yesterday paid one cash note for $50,000. Continuing, the mayor said:

"The interest on the notes was 6 per cent. When I made the renewal of the note the block of stock was worth $81,000, but I sold it yesterday for $68,000. The note called for $75,000, so I lost $7,000. I took no active interest in the American Ice Company. I never knew anything of its management. I never knew that the American Ice Company was to have any monopoly of the ice business of the city. I never knew they had any leases. I never knew that the ice company stated to the stock exchange that it had a contract for eleven docks in the city."

President Gelshenon, of the Garfield National Bank, testified that no loans were made to Mayor Van Wyck, but that $50,000 was loaned to President Morse, of the ice company. Mr. Morse testified that he did not talk with the mayor about buying ice company stock, and that the company got its dock privileges in the usual way from the dock commission.

The examination of Dock Commissioners Cram and Murphy disclosed that they owned large blocks of ice company stock at the time docks were awarded to the company's use.

Sadly Afflicted.

There is a case of malignant typhoid fever in a house on Diamond steet, near Twenty-third, and a messenger from the health office was sent up there the other day to paste the necessary labels on the doors. When he reached the house he discovered that he had only one typhoid fever label left, but he didn't let a little thing like that bother him. He affixed the typhoid label to the front door, and, going around to the back gate, posted a diphtheria label there. This circumstance has nearly caused a panic among the hucksters who work both the fronts and the rears of the houses. "Gee!" commented a big huckster, "dat's de sickest fam'ly I ever seen. It's lucky dey ain't got a side door. Dey'd have smallpox on dat, sure."—Philadelphia Record.

They were nearly all secured by the Citizens' Business League, which last year brought conventions to Milwaukee which were worth $3,000,000 to the city. Didn't Do a Thing.

Boys are odd conglomerations, and few there are who understand the emotions that prompt their actions.

A certain little fellow had his picture taken, and when the family got the negative of it they were horrified to see the face of the boy all puffed out and the eyes bulging, and exclaimed in a body: "Why, what on earth did you do to make your face look like that?"

"Didn't do a thing," said the innocent little fellow, "but just see if I could hold my breath until the man got through takin' my picture."—Memphis Scimitar.

Boston's Hoarse Laugh.

Not long ago Bostonians laughed hoarsely and otherwise at the gullibles of New York who were plucked by the ten-per-cent-a-week syndicate. Whereupon a raw fakir hurried to the Hub and unloaded a cargo of "Hindu lucky boxes" at $1 each, scooping in as high as $30,000 a week. But Boston bears its humiliation with becoming silence.

HEARD AT DIVINE WORSHIP.

WHAT WAS PREACHED AND SUNG.

At West Market Dr. Rowe Preached Ably on Divine Providence, an Ever Important Subject—Mr. Rankin at the First Presbyterian—Services in Other Churches. Some of the Music—Announcements.

"God never intended that one man should count his money by the millions and have at his command every luxury, while another man should look into the face of a starving wife and emaciated children." This sentence was used by Rev. Dr. J. C. Rowe in his sermon yesterday morning on "Divine Providence." This subject, he said, might be a hackneyed one, but it was important now to keep God in mind, because the world is running to altruism; not that man could do too much for his fellow man, but by emphasing this idea too greatly God would be forgotten.

Providence embraces three ideas: God's purpose, His provisions for the accomplishment of that purpose, and the certainty of its accomplishment. God created the universe and made man the lord of it that His glory and perfection might be shown in intelligent beings. Man was made ruler of the earth as God is ruler of the universe; he was made in the image and essence of God. At every step God has made provisions by which man might carry out His purpose. He has made absolute provision for every man; that is what is meant by the scripture which says that every hair on one's head is numbered. Every exigency is provided for. Thus, when by sin, man fell from the state of perfection in which he had been created, God ordained a remedy for it. He sent His son into the world, as a savior, that every man might be provided with means to again rise to perfection, and thus carry out the original plan. Man is given much latitude, and it is not for us to say how far God acts in special providence. A traveler gave up his sleeping berth to a lady and took another one on the same train. The train was wrecked at the Bostian Bridge and the lady in the berth which the man had surrendered to her was killed, and he was not. People say that this was a special providence; it might have been, it was not for us to say, but the speaker could see no reason why providence should ordain that she should be killed and that the man should escape.

If this theory is correct, that God has a purpose, and has furnished means for the working out of that purpose which he is certain to accomplish, then as a logical sequence, the world ought to show development. Governments ought to be better than they were 2,000 years ago, the individual life ought to be larger and better than then. It is a fact of observation that they are. But while there has been progress there is not yet completion, but there must finally be.

The offertory was a beautiful selection well rendered by a quartette composed of Miss Lola Carraway, Miss Mozelle Andrews, Miss Addie Cutler and Miss Nan Wood.

MR. RANKIN AT THE FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

Rev. Chas. F. Rankin, pastor of the Red Springs church, and instructor in the seminary there, preached in the First Presbyterian church last evening. Dr. Smith voiced the feeling of the congregation in welcoming him as a son of the First Presbyterian. Mr. Rankin chose for his subject Christ's well known reply to the tempter, that man does not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes from the mouth of God. From this text he preached a most comforting sermon.

"The greatest battle that is going on in the world today is the battle for bread; the great majority of the human race is engaged in this great battle. See yonder man who toils beneath the broiling sun, or him, who, begrimmed and smutty, works in the bowels of the earth, never seeing the sunlight; they are fighting the battle for bread for loved ones." But man lives not by bread alone, and the spiritual sustenance, the finding and obeying God's will is even more important. In the wild rush for gain and temporal advantage the world overlooks this all important fact. Another great truth to be learned is that faith in God will carry us through all troubles. If we do what we can, and have faith in God our needs will be provided for, even though the ordinary channels of supply seem to be closed.

HE WAS CRIME'S VICTIM.

How a Millionaire Compelled a Bank Clerk to Steal.

A STORY WITH A MORAL.

One of the Queerest Crimes in History—Samuel C. Seeley Has Served Five Years in the Penitentiary—One of the Principals Committed Suicide.

Out of Kings County Penitentiary in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently, after more then five years' servitude, stepped the victim of one of the queerest crimes in history—a man who stole $354,000 for the accommodation of another whom he scarcely knew, in whose house he had never been, whom he never cared for and whom eventually he hated. While columns have been written about the instrument by which this crime was committed, little has been said concerning the master mind which planned the looting of the Shoe and Leather Bank, and under the impetus of which Samuel C. Seely was no more than a wooden puppet.

Frederick Baker was a man of middle height and more than middle age, rotund, well dressed, with gray hair and a rosy face. A large landowner and a reputed millionaire, he yet was beginning to feel the pinch of embarrassment. He kept an open account with the Shoe and Leather Bank, and happened to deal with Seely because the latter had charge of the ledgers from A to K.

It all followed Baker's carelessness in writing out checks for $1,100 more than his account was good for, and Seely, accustomed to handling his orders for considerable sums, let them go through. When Seely found it out next day he was a badly frightened man. The thing that he should have done was to have reported the matter instantly to the president, but that might have entailed a reprimand, and Seely was too weak a man to face his chief's displeasure. Moreover, he understood by report that Baker was a man of wealth, and it did not occur to him that such a suave, white haired, well dressed old gentleman could be a rascal. So he sent a postal card requesting him to cover the deficiency. Baker got the card and tore it up.

Two days later Seely came panting into Baker's office and asked him to square up, and it took the shrewd real estate operator only about one minute to take his measure as a man whom it would be easy to work.

"That's right," he admitted, after the pass book had been balanced, and then he told a beautiful story of a real estate "deal," which would materialize in a few days, after which the account would be promptly squared.

Baker realized that Seely couldn't betray him, even if he wanted to. Then the game began in earnest. Baker had been making small deposits all the time, and checking the money out; but now the checks began to grow larger and the deposits smaller. There were little overdrafts every day or two, and every time he met them Seely realized that he was indeed in a "big hole," and that it was getting steadily bigger.

So it went on from week to week and month to month and year to year. The checks grew larger and more frequent, the overdraft bigger and bigger, and Baker's promises smoother and more magnificent. And Seely still believed him. He never threatened Seely with State Prison. He was never brutally dictatorial, as he might have been. He was always regretful and hopeful, but every day his checks came in at the bank, and poor Seely had to see them paid or confess a shortage, which was up in the tens of thousands of dollars, and he couldn't do that.

Meanwhile Baker was living like a fighting cock, spending thousands of dollars annually. He had an expensive family, maintained a handsome town house and a beautiful country home and was able when he chose to take his family to Europe for a vacation.

During all this time the man who was providing thousands for Baker's speculations was pounding along on $35 a week, trying to meet his insurance premiums and to make payments on his little house in Halsey street, Brooklyn. Every day after banking hours he went home clinging to a strap in a crowded trolley car, while the man whose tool he was could ride in a carriage.

But Seely did not go entirely without reward. After he had supplied Baker with a good many thousands it occurred to him such accommodation was worth something. So occasionally he went to Baker's office and timidly "touched him" for a few dollars. Sometimes it was $2 to go to a baseball match, or $5 for the theatre, and sometimes these "loans" of $2 or $5 or $100 never inconvenienced Baker, because he had only to put out checks for $5, $10 or $1,000, and Seely had to see him through.

All told Baker got about $35,000 a year from Seely. Seely got about $1,000 a year out of Baker, and he paid for it with an amount of misery and suffering which few men endured. And all the time Baker was making gilded promises of restitution, which he never kept. Then at last the system of bookkeeping was changed, and the long dreaded exposure became sure.

Isa Quack Doctor More Dangerous than a Quack Plumber?

When you are sick why is it that you do not peddle out the job of dosing you, to the lowest bidder? You would get it done much cheaper than your family physician would do it, but some QUACK DOCTOR would get the job. Your plumbing is of vital importance and you can no more afford to have your plumbing done by a quack plumber than to call in a quack doctor when sick.

Give us your work and it will be done properly and price will be reasonable.

A WOMAN'S WARDROBE.

How the Best-Dressed Women Attire Themselves.

The new spring gowns, made all of one material and not with separate waists will be of light silks and muslins or other thin materials.

Almost all the new spring stuffs are of a soft, clinging quality, which makes them adaptable to the present style of gown.

There are to be some lovely silk muslins with bunches of flowers and sprays of vines and buds worn.

The smartest shirt-waist will be made tucked back and front from the neck down, and the tucks will be rather wide than other-wise. The great tendency is to make the waist-line as long as possible in front.

The tailor and walking skirts will barely sweep the ground, and the long trains have entirely passed away with the habit and close-fitting backs.

The return of the bustle is heralded. It is not a large affair, but small, well shaped.

Sleeves are still worn tight, and are much trimmed. They are quite long, and the smartest ones are made ending in a point which covers the top of the hand to the knuckles.

Collars are to be worn high, but not as stiff as they have been.

The new hats are made of some fancy straw braids, tulle, or silk nets of the most fantastic shapes. Breasts, birds, wings, and feathers are much less worn, and you can't have enough flowers.—Edith Lawrence in the March Ladies' Home Journal.

Gilded picture frames may be cleaned by applying alcohol very lightly with a camel's hair brush. Or still another method makes use of the white of an egg. Beat the egg white ever so little and apply it with either a soft cloth or a camel's hair brush.

RHEUMATISM

Distorts Muscles, Shatters Nerves, Stiffens Joints.

Is due to an acid poison which gains access to the blood through failure of the proper organs to carry off and keep the system clear of all morbid, effete matter. This poison through the general circulation is deposited in the joints, muscles and nerves, causing the most intense pain.

Rheumatism may attack with such suddenness and severity as to make within a few days a healthy, active person helpless and bed-ridden, with distorted limbs and shattered nerves; or it may be slow in developing, with slight wandering pains, just severe enough to make one feel uncomfortable; the tendency in such cases is to grow worse, and finally become chronic.

Like other blood diseases, Rheumatism is often inherited, and exposure to damp or cold, want of proper food, insufficient clothing, or anything calculated to impair the health, will frequently cause it to develop in early life, but more often not until middle age or later. In whatever form, whether acute or chronic, acquired or inherited, Rheumatism is Strictly a Blood Disease, and no liniment or other external treatment can reach the trouble. Neither do the preparations of potash and mercury, and the various mineral salts, which the doctors always prescribe, cure Rheumatism, but ruin the digestion and break down the constitution.

A remedy which builds up the general health and at the same time rids the system of the poison is the only safe and certain cure for Rheumatism. S. S. S., made of roots, herbs and barks of wonderful solvent, purifying properties, attacks the disease in the right way, and in the right place—the blood—and quickly neutralizes the acid and dissolves all poisonous deposits, stimulates and reinforces the overworked, worn-out organs, and clears the system of all unhealthy accumulations. S. S. S. cures permanently and thoroughly, and keeps the blood in a pure, healthy state.

Mr. J. O. Malley, 123 W. 15th Street, Indianapolis, Ind., for eighteen months was so terribly afflicted with Rheumatism he was unable to feed or dress himself. Doctors said his case was hopeless. He had tried fifty-two prescriptions that friends had given him, without the slightest relief. A few bottles of S. S. S. cured him permanently, and he has never had a rheumatic pain since. This was five years ago.

We will send free our special book on Rheumatism, which should be in the hands of every sufferer from this torturing disease. Our physicians have made blood and skin diseases a life study, and will give you any information or advice wanted, so write them fully and freely about your case. We make no charge whatever for this service. Address, SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

THE TROUBLE IN CHINA.

There has not been so interesting and dangerous a situation in the far east in a long time as now exists by reason of the outbreak in China. The powers that are looking with jealous eyes towards the Celestial empire are now on the scene in more or less force. Russia, Germany, France, England, Italy, Japan and the United States each are represented by armed force of more or less strength, Russia being in the lead. All are there for the ostensible purpose of protecting the life and property interests of their own citizens. It is natural, though, that each should be suspicious of the others, and all most suspicious of Russia.

It is quite difficult to get a clear understanding of any movement in that wonderful country. Communication is next to impossible, except in the nearer coast towns, where foreigners dwell, and the duplicity and peculiarity of the Chinese mind adds to the difficulty of understanding what they are after. The present movement is simply an uprising against everything foreign, but the problem in the case is discover the real relation of the government to the movement. Of course, under the stress of foreign demand, the government is making a show of opposition to the Boxers and a pretended effort to put them down. There has all along been strong suspicion that this opposition was only to make believe, and that the Dowager Empress, who rules the country in place of the Emperor, is in well understood sympathy with the rebels. Our dispatches Saturday said that this belief had gone so far that the foreign officials had become convinced that there was not only sympathy, but actual connivance, and that this makes vigorous foreign interference for the purpose of protecting life and property necessary at once. How this interference will come is just now the question. Russia is making demands upon China that she be allowed to step in with force enough to restore order, as a friendly action in behalf of, and at the earnest solicitation of, China, but so far the Empress refuses to extend the obliging call. The United States so far firmly declares its intention to act independently and according to its judgment. Germany is in favor of joint action at once, and if this is not obtainable, will act independently at once. The intention and desires of the others are not yet expressed. The belief, however, seems to be in best informed circles that joint action will be taken, since Russia, the only power greatly desirous of acting alone, dare not do so against the will of Japan, England and Germany, leaving Italy, the United States and France out of the count.

And why is there such great interest in this trouble? Not because of the trouble itself, vast as it is, and with so much meaning in it for China. Nor is simply because there is much foreign interests there to be looked after, not still, yet, because its success would mean the expulsion of foreigners, their influence, their ideas and progress from the country. The greatest cause for activity and watchfulness is that China is just now the checker board of Oriental politics, and the men on the board so industriously playing the game, are the powers already mentioned. The proposition that China will sooner or later be divided is assumed as a fact, and every eye is watching with avidity, lest some move be made that in the slightest degree advances the interest of one of the rivals. Another cause is the belief that the impending conflict between Russia and Japan, which the latter is anxious to have occur, is in some way affected.

Another very interesting question is, What does the Empress Dowager and her advisers mean by their connivance with the rebels? The present ruling influence in China is known as the reactionary party, from the fact that by the machinations of the Dowager Empress, who is intensely anti-foreign in feeling, succeeded in virtually deposing the Emperor and the party that was friendly, or at least not actively hostile, to the infusion of foreign and modern ideas into the empire. To the world outside of poor, blind China it appears certain that the powers will interfere to the extent of deposing the Empress if the trouble is not quelled. Then, it is asked, What can she mean by conniving with the rebels, and really instigating them to further violence, while pretending to be trying to quell them? Is it that she and her followers, too, are blind, or that she expects to play up on the jealousies and fears of the rival powers, and therein find immunity from the effects of her own deeds?

This year, in spite of the complete union of the two Bryanite parties the Republicans in Oregon elect their State ticket by a large majority, both Congressmen, and a legislature which will chose a Republican Senator for the term beginning next March.—Asheville Gazette.

This year, in spite of the complete union of negroes and the Federal office holders, the Democrats in North Carolina will carry a constitutional amendment that will disfranchise the dangerous dupes of the Federal office holders; elect a legislature that will choose an honest man for Senator for the term beginning next March, and do some other things that will make it useless for the same Federal office holders to purchase weak-minded newspapers to talk abont "manhood, suffrage" and "North Carolina Goebelism."

In view of all which, we are not much concerned about the fact that water is still wet out in Oregon.

The Union Sunday School excursion, run to Raleigh last week, was worthy of more than passing notice. It was really a very great boon to hundreds of children and to a very large number of grown up people, too. The time of going and coming was well planned and added to the pleasure of the trip. Plenty of time, yet not too much, was given in the capital city, and the fare for the round trip was at a figure which made it possible for many to go and enjoy the day who would otherwise have been unable to do so. We are aware that excursions are somewhat looked down upon as exceedingly boring institutions traveling under the guise of pleasures. But such an one as this is not; it was a real joy and a pleasure to the participants, and whatever brings innocent amusement and recreation to a large number of people is a great thing.

The indications, from which appears elsewhere of the examination of Mayor Van Wyck, are that the yellow journals of New York have stirred up something very yellow.

Workers Should Breakfast Sparingly.

Do not eat a hearty breakfast if you have any mental or physical work to do thereafter. The full stomach may satisfy your craving, but cannot give you the needed or desired strength under about three or four hours Digestion, absorption and assimiliation must take place before you can get any good from your breakfast. If these processes are not completed the hearty breakfast simply clogs the vital machinery. Therefore, the hearty six o'clock dinner which will not only build up the waste of the day, but provides a reserve for the morrow, is to be recommended.—April Ladies' Home Journal.

GOLD IN JAPAN.

Old Diggers Say There Is a Regular Klondike There.

Gold is now being found in large quantities at Hokkaido, in the province of Kitami in Japan. A territory embracing six hundred and fifty square miles, the central point of which is Mount Horo-Noborn, is being worked and with such splendid results that old diggers have styled it the Japanese Klondike. Almost all the gold is found in little pools and streams, which have their source in Mount Horo-Noborn.

Until recently there was only a small village in this district, the inhabitants of which numbered about four hundred, whereas to-day there is a flourishing city with a population of more than eight thousand. As to the exact yield of gold up to the present it is not easy to obtain reliable for the reason that the diggers are very reticent on the subject evidently fearing that if their good fortune becomes generally known, a host of adventurers will flock to Hokkaido from all parts of the world. It is certain, however, that one company, which has been buying gold from the diggers has exported nine hundred kilogrammes of the pure metal within the past nine months.

The gold is obtained in the most primitive manner and much more easily than is the case in other well known gold fields. The climatic conditions at Hokkaido are also exceptionally favorable for this work. The right to search for gold can be purchased from the government for a small sum, yet it is said that many of the present diggers have paid nothing and that the ten policemen who are empowered to sell concessions find it impossible to collect a cent from many of those who are daily gathering up gold from the beds of the small pools and streams.—N. Y. Herald.

EARTH IS GROWING.

Gains Weight at the Rate of Five Hundred Tons a Year.

The earth is growing heavier at the average rate of 500 tons a year. The meteors or shooting or falling stars (of which now and again such brilliant displays rejoice the careful watchers) in passing through the earth's atmosphere are burnt up and fall on to the earth's surface, occasionally in a heavy mass, but most usually in small meteoric dust. Prof. Nordenskjold, from his great experience, estimated that, from the cause named, 500 tons fall uniformly and steadily over the whole globe in each year, and the observations of Russian scientists yield a similar result. These meteor streams says another astronomer, are really small planetary bodies, revolving around the sun in fixed orbits by the force of gravity. The earth revolves on its axis at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour, and speeds through space in its orbit around the sun at the rate of 1,000 miles every minute, and in August and November plunges into the very midst of the meteoric stream going in the opposite direction. The rapidity with which they enter our atmosphere, and the friction thus generated, are so enormous that they are set fire to, the smaller ones being consumed and falling in dust, while the larger ones occasionally reach the earth in the shape of meteoric stone or iron.

Cure for "That Tired Feeling."

"That tired feeling" may be combated by proper exercise, wholesome food, pure air, pure water, pure thoughts; then will the temple of the soul be a fit dwelling place. Learn to economize your vitality. Snatch a few moments here and there for rest, either by full relaxation or change of occupation. The man in the story who hired out to the farmer never got tired never got hungry. But the first day, long before the noon hour, he was seen sitting upon the plow in the shade of a tree eating a slice of bread and butter. He rested before getting tired, ate before he was hungry. While I have not followed his example, I cannot remember when I was tired, although I am never idle and not infrequently average seventeen hours' work a day.—Edward B. Warman in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Many Blind Russians.

Statistics which have just been compiled show that of the 302,000 totally blind persons in Europe 192,000 are natives of Russia, and this means that out of every 500 subjects of the Czar there is one who is deprived of sight. In no other country do we find this terrible affliction by any means so widespread. In Germany, France, Great Britain, Italy, and Spain there is only one blind person in every 1,000 inhabitants. Russian oculists and physicians say that the reason why so many of their countrymen are blind and so many others have defective eyesight is because insufficient attention is paid throughout the country to the ordinary laws of hygiene, and they maintain that Russians will continue to suffer in this way as long as they keep themselves and their homes in unhealthy condition.

COPPER MINES.

Some That Were Worked Thousands of Years Before the Christian Era.

The copper mines of Sinai, on the northwest of Arabia, were worked thousands of years before the Christian era. It is stated in "Comptes Rendus" that those copper mines are the most ancient of which history makes mention. According to authentic documents they were worked from about 5,000 years B. C. until about 1,300 or 1,200 B. C. Their possession have been the object of several wars, but they had been abandoned for 3,000 years on account of the poverty of the ores. It was from these mines that was obtained a scepter of Pepi I., a King of the Sixth Dynasty. This scepter, made of pure copper, is preserved in the British Museum. The adits still exist as well as the ruins of the furnaces, the crucibles, the huts of the miners and some fragments of their tools. In some of the specimens obtained there occur three ores—turquoise, copper-hydrosilicate and sandstones, impregnated with copper. Among the debris have been found slags and cinders, but there is no evidence of the use of fluxes. Some of the fragments of tools contain arsenic, which was used by the Greek and Egyptian alchemists for hardening copper.

Gambling on Rain.

The English government has recently prohibited in India the peculiar hazard game called "Barsa ka satta."

This game cannot be played except when it rains, for, in fact, it consists of betting on the date of rain and the quantity that may descend from the skies.

On all the porticos, or "altans," as they are called in India, there are certain tubs introduced which have a perpendicular pipe in their centres, the pipe being provided with equal division marks or notches.

The point of the game is to determine in advance just at what time a certain height will be reached by the water.

The natives have pursued this method of gambling with such passion that quarrels, and dangerous ones, often resulted, and hence the ruling of the English government to make the play illegal.

NEW OIL FIELDS.

Those in California Make a Great Change in Industrial Enterprises.

"A couple of years ago," said Mr. Will A. Harris, of Los Angeles, Cal., at he Shoreham, "a couple of fellows in Los Angeles thought that they detected traces of oil in some lands near my city. One was a grocery store clerk and the other was an engineer, who was getting $2 a day for running a steam engine. People laughed at their oil theories. These two men have made a wonderful change in California. They are now worth more than $1,000,000 apiece, and getting richer every hour. Others have made lots of money. There are several hundred people in Los Angeles alone who have become moderately rich through the discovery of oil. Los Angeles men are now developing the oil fields a couple of hundred miles north of Los Angeles From the indications it looks as if the whole of California, clear up to the very northern counties, were rich with oil. Most of this land, before the discovery of oil, was barren and not considered to be worth a dollar.

"The oil is making a great change in California industrial enterprises. Coal, you know, is mightily expensive out there. Now but little coal is used. The Santa Fe Railroad uses oil to run its locomotives. The Southern Pacific will change from coal to oil very soon. They tell me that with oil so cheap and coal so high the difference in the cost of runnng a locomtive for a single day is $50 in favor of oil. If we could get coal at $3 a ton, delivered where we want it, oil would still be cheaper fuel for manufacturing purposes. Now coal is worth more than $3 a ton in most places that I ever heard about in the East, so you see this discovery of oil means a great deal to California." — Washington Post.

Her Clothing Is So Made That It Can Be Put On Instantly.

"While the actress is on the stage her maid has carefully laid out the gown that is to be put on, with all its accessories," writes Franklin Fyles in the Ladies' Home Journal. "The dresses are made with a view to celerity. Hardly anything is left to be fastened on. Knots of ribbon, draped sashes, pieces of jewelry, even corsage bouquets, are attached beforehand, in case there is not a minute to spare. A very modish and complete evening gown with everything belonging to it may be a single construction. The maid inspects it carefully to see that it is in complete good order, and deposits it on a chair. Close by she places the shoes, stockings and whatever of millinery is to be worn. When the actress comes in she is deftly relieved of the gown which the audience has last seen her in. Next she sits before her mirror, and, if there is need of great haste, makes whatever rearrangement of hair or headdress is necessary while the maid takes off the shoes and stockings. Under the latter are different ones already on. By the time that the second pair of shoes are buttoned the coiffure is readjusted. Then the actress stands up and the new dress is adjusted in a jiffy. If the change has had to be made while an act is in progress it may have occupied no more than five or six minutes. But that is exceptional. If done between acts, with ten minutes allowed to it, the job has no appearance of furious speed, so thoroughly is it pre-arranged."

ELECTRICITY.

It Will Propel Big Passenger Steamers on the Seine.

Passenger boats propelled exclusively by electricity will make their appearance on the Seine early this spring, in connection with the Paris Exposition.

These novel boats, the trial trips of which have proved a wonderful success, have been built on the plans and under the direction of a French engineer, Mr. Pisca, for the company of Suburban Omnibus Boats, which will employ them, notwithstanding their luxurious equipment, for the transportation of ordinary travelers at a reduced rate. They will run at a great speed, without noise or smoke, and will be able to make nearly 63 miles without recharging, managed by one man.

These boats will be charged by an electric machine on the river bank at the Asnieres, in front of their mooring station.

Particular interest attaches to these boats from the fact that they are the first devoted to the public service that have been tried inEurope. If the enterprise proves successful, which there is every reason to expect, it will revolutionize river transportation.

HEARD AT DIVINE WORSHIP.

morning heard the first of a series of sermons on "Our Church Covenant."

In the evening the pastor preached from the subject of Christ washing the diciples' feet and was heard by a large and attentive crowd. Mr Johnson held that Christ did not intend this as a religious ordinance, as some claim, but an object lesson by which He showed His love to them and taught them an important lesson in humility There was strife among them as to which should be greatest. Probably the question under dispute was as to which of them should perform this menial service, each doubtless thinking it was a service too humble for him to render. Without a word Christ arose from the table and washed their feet, saying, "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet."

The music at both services was excellent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

After the sermon by the pastor yesterday morning a foreign missionary subscription was taken, and in a few minutes several hundred dollars were subscribed by the members of the First Presbyterian.

Dr. Smith announced that the preaching and Sunday school services at the First Church would be suspended next Sunday, in order that the congregation may worship at the Normal College where the baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Dr. John Watkins, an eminent Presbyterian divine. Dr. Watkins will preach at the First Church at night.

Mormonism will be discussed at the meeting of the Baptist Young People's Union this evening. Several interesting papers have been prepared. The meeting will be held in the Sunday school room of West Washington Street church. You are invited.

SARTATORIAL.

Depew Called the Best-Dressed Man in the Senate.

Who is the best-dressed man in the Senate? Some say Hale, of Maine, some Platt, of New York; others believe Wolcott, of Colorada, but, by an informal jury which was recently invited to pass upon the question, Senator Depew, of New York, was unanimously chosen. When Mr. Depew was told by a World correspondent that this decision had been reached, he said with a chuckle:

"That's a sartorial untruth."

"I am glad to know that my habit of dress has been aproved by the jury. But really, I don't know that I can lay claim to this proud distinction."

Senator Depew is one of the best dressed men in the Senate. There are men who display more flashy raiment and who have their clothes cut in the latest English fashion, but none who dress in better taste or who exhibit more style and simplicity than Senator Depew. His clothes are cut from the same pattern that he has used for many years.

He always wears a black frock coat, silk-faced; dark-striped trousers, and usually a double-breasted waistcoat of the same material as the coat. In the summer his style of dress does not vary, except that he discards the black frock for a short box coat of lighter material.

The Depew cravats are the most striking article of his wardrobe. His street ties are of the four-in-hand style, tied snugly about his high collar. He has one or two black silk cravats, but the greater part of his neckwear is bright-hued. The Senator has a large stock, so that he wears a different tie every day in the week.

The Depew shirts, with cuffs attached, are of plain white linen, not especially expensive. His trousers are always faultlessly creased and never become baggy at the knees.

The Depew shoes are of black calfskin, soft and easy. Sometimes he wears gaiters. Usually he prefers the button shoe. His assortment of hosiery is not extraordinary, and his taste runs to plain black. He shaves himself every morning and goes to the barber's chair only when his hair and whiskers need trimming. He has no fancy waistcoats and shrinks from striped shirts and plaid socks.—N. Y. World.

A UNIQUE FISHING CRAFT.

Captain Jacobs Is Proud of the "Helen Miller Gould."

SAID TO SAIL IN A CALM

The Most Successful of American Fishermen—A Successful Trip—His Trouble With the Irish—An Interview With an Old Sea Dog.

There came into New York harbor the other day a woman's fishing craft. She was the Helen Miller Gould, of Gloucester, Mass.

"The name is an honor to the boat," said Captain Jacobs, as he made fast to the wharf, "and the boat is a credit to the name. How could it be otherwise?"

The curiosity was as to the style of craft which Capt. Jacobs, who is known as "the pioneer" fisherman, had designed. The thing that mackerel fishermen dread even more than a storm is a calm. Without wind to enable them to draw near when the fish are schooling they might as well be in port. Many a good catch had been prevented by the wind suddenly dying out while the fish were in sight. To secure immunity from loss due in this way to calms, Captain Jacobs placed an order for a small compact electro-gasoline engine of 35 horse-power. He arranged to set this in the stern under the cabin, and he built berths for his battery cells and tanks for his fuel in the same part of the vessel. The midship section he set apart for his store and salting quarters; and then found that he had ample space forward for his supplies, for his messroom and for sleeping quarters for his men. The cost of building and equipping the vessel according to Captain Jacobs's plans was $23,000, which is a pretty stiff price for a mackerel schooner, and more than twice as much as many of them cost.

"We owe the success of this trip to the little engine," Captain Jacobs said, as he whisked off the hatch and pointed to the bins full of mackerel lying between the layers of ice in the hold. "There are 36,000 as fine fish as you ever saw, and we got them in two casts of that net. That's pretty near high line. But we'd never have come near them if we had been dependent solely upon our canvas, for there wasn't a whisper of a breeze blowing when we sighted 'em. That engine is the new fangle in mackerel fishing. It's a thing the other fellows will be running after soon."

The Helen Miller Gould got rid of her fish even faster than she caught them, for by 2 o'clock in the afternoon the 36,000 had been sold. Most of the fish went for ten cents each, but the choice brought twelve cents, and the catch put $4,000 in the pockets of the owners—not bad for two hauls of the net in a few days' fishing. On Wednesday morning at daybreak the Helen Miller Gould was scudding out through the Narrows again, bound down the coast in quest of other schools of fish. Miss Gould had expected to pay a visit to her namesake, but other engagements prevented. She probably will inspect the schooner on its return.

Last year was a bad year also for mackerel on this side, and in his efforts to supply the market Captain Jacobs came close to involving this country in another fisheries dispute with Great Britain. In defiance of sailor superstitions he crossed to the Irish coast where mackerel were plenty, in his thirteenth vessel, the Ethel B. Jacobs—named after one of his daughters. And he crossed the ocean in her in thirteen days; would have made it nine, he says, had he not been becalmed four days.

The Irish fishermen heard of his coming and were up in arms against him; but he fished outside the three-mile limit in all sorts of weather, and had good luck. He ran into Liverpool to ship his catch to this side, and the British Government seized his vessel and kept her tied up for a month before he could secure her release. Then he instructed his lawyer to file a claim for damages against England—and went right back to the Irish coast after more mackerel. He had shipped cargoes of fish to the value of $7,000 to this market, when he was told by cable that his wife was seriously ill.

Command of the Ethel B. Jacobs was turned over to his friend and mate Captain William Cluett, and an English pilot was put aboard of her. Then Captain Jacobs came home. Captain Cluett made a successful haul and started to Liverpool with his fish, but the English pilot ran him on a reef on the Irish coast and sent the Ethel B. Jacobs to the bottom. So the thirteenth hoodoo finally got in its work. Captain Cluett is sailing with Captain Jacobs on the Helen Miller Gould, which is pretty good evidence that the loss of the Ethel B. Jacobs is laid to that English pilot.

HOW THE HORSE EATS.

ONE OF NATURE'S REMARKABLE PROVISIONS FOR OLD AGE.

A Horse's Teeth Wear Down But Always Keep Sharp—Use of Saliva as an Aid to Digestion—Importance of Chewing.

A horse with a "full mouth" has forty-two teeth, namely, six front teeth in each jaw, and one tush and six back teeth on each side of each jaw, writes an English veteranarian in the London Live Stock Journal. Each tooth is covered with a very hard, white and comparatively thin layer of enamel, which in the front teeth forms a depression in the cutting surface table of the tooth. Hence, when a front tooth comes into wear, its table has two irregularly-shaped rings of enamel, with soft tooth-substance (dentine) between them.

In each back tooth the layer of enamel is doubled in on each side so as to form on the table sharp and hard ridges, which project above the soft dentine. The tables of the back teeth slope downward and outward, that is to say, their inner edges are higher than their outer edges. The action of the back teeth is that of a mill, in which the sharp surfaces of the upper and lower back teeth on each side of the mouth work laterally against each other, and thus grind the food which is brought between them by the tongue and cheeks.

As the lower jaw is narrower than the upper jaw, the horse can chew with his back teeth only on one side of his mouth at a time, which he often continues to do for even so long as an hour, without changing to the other side. A horse is unable to use his front teeth and his back teeth at the same time; for when he works his jaws laterally the front teeth of the lower jaw become separated from those of the upper jaw.

Each tooth is lodged in a socket of its jaw bone, and becomes developed from its dental pulp, which is provided with blood vessels, nerves and secreting cells. Owing to the continued secretion of dentine, the teeth are forced slowly out of their sockets, which movement more or less makes up for the wear entailed on the teeth by mastication.

Our own teeth, on the contrary, remain stationary in their sockets after they have attained their full size. The greater amount of wear undergone by the back teeth of the horse is compensated for by the increasing obliquity of the incisors with age.

As the teeth wear down in time, the layers of enamel of both the front and back teeth gradually become thinner and weaker, until at last they disappear altogether, or fail to fulfill their purpose as cutting projections on the tables of the teeth. Hence, mastication becomes less perfect with age, and as the animal grows old, he becomes increasingly liable to indigestion from the faulty action of his teeth.

On an average, a horse takes about nine minutes to eat one pound of oats, and about twelve minutes to consume the same weight of hay.

While the food is being chewed, it becomes more or less mixed with saliva, which flows into the mouth from the salivary glands in response to the stimulus caused by the presence of the food, and which helps the animal to swallow. In horses, the chief source of saliva is the parotid glands, which are of greater comparative size in them than in all other animals except ruminants.

The saliva of the parotid glands consists of about 99.2 per cent. of water. Carpenter points out that the size of the parotid glands in animals is proportionate to the degree in which the mastication of their food is performed; and that these glands are absent in birds, which swallow their food whole.

Although dogs secrete saliva abundantly, starch is not a component of their natural food. As the requirements of the horse's digestion demands that he should thoroughly chew his food, we ought to give it to him in a condition that will induce him to eat slowly. Furthermore, the amount of saliva secreted during mastication is more or less proportionate to the dryness of the fodder; for the dryer it is the more saliva will the horse require to enable him to swallow it.

Saliva, being of an alkaline nature, aids the digestion of fat by forming it into an emulsion, in which the fat is split up into minute particles.

Saliva contains the ferment pytalin, which has the property of converting starch into sugar, in which form it is absorbed into the body. The action of the pytaline of the saliva on starch is of too brief duration to have much effect; for it ceases soon after the arrival of the food in the stomach, on account of the presence of acid in the gastric juices. The digestive changes which the food undergoes in the mouth therefore appear to be more mechanical than chemical.

Work Both Ways.

"The young men of the present day," said the elderly person, "have great advantages of the young men of my day, both in education and business training."

"But the trouble is," said the young man, "they have no advantage over one another."—Indinapolis Journal.

SHE SEEKS PARDON.

Under Sentence of Life Imprisonment For Murder of Husband.

Application for pardon has been made by Mrs. Kate Cobb, under sentence of life imprisonment at Hartford, Conn., for the murder of her husband. Twenty-one years ago Mrs. Cobb entered the prison a handsome woman in the prime of life.

Her trial was one of the most sensational in Connecticut court records. For love of Wesley W. Bishop, a druggist two years her senior, she poisoned her husband by placing arsenic in his tea. Bishop killed his wife in the same manner on account of his infatuation for Mrs. Cobb. The victims died within two hours of each other in the fall of 1878.

The trial would have resulted in failure to convict on account of lack of evidence, for both stoutly maintained their innocence, but Bishop at the last moment experienced a change of heart, confessed the crime and implicated Mrs. Cobb. The woman steadfastly maintained her innocence. As to Bishop's culpability she was silent.

In the prison chapel the women sit behind a screen and the men below are unable to see them. Mrs. Cobb for twenty-one years has seen the face of her accuser daily, but Bishop has never caught a glimpse of the woman for whom he committed murder.

Mrs. Cobb has been a model prisoner, seeking to avoid notoriety and the gaze of curious visitors. She once cooked a dinner for the Governor of Connecticut, which the chief executive pronounced the best he had ever eaten. Her needle-work and embroidery are the wonder of those who visit the annual sales at the State prison.

Mrs. Cobb has a daughter living—Mrs. Luther Spalding, of Norwich—to whose home she will go if pardon is granted. When asked if he would oppose her effort to obtain her liberty Bishop replied:

"No; if she can be freed I shall make no objection."

Andrew Coats of Perth, England, who died recently at the age of eighty-five, was the last of four brothers who built up the spool cotton trade, representing many millions. Their father was an humble Paisley weaver.

Nothing that has ever yet been produced in the way of summer footwear for men will begin to compare for comfort, coolness and durability with shoes made of tan vici kid. If you have never tried shoes made of this material, ask any man who has worn them and you will find him enthusiastic in their praise. But it is possible to have too much of a good thing and we find ourselves overstocked with certain lines of tan vici shoes So in order to reduce the surplus, we have cut some fifty pairs of the $3 50, $3.00 and $2.75 grades down to $2.48. You can see the samples of these in our north window the rest of this week and if you are going to need another pair of shoes this summer it will be worth your while to stop and take a look at these. DYSPEPSIA

"My wife suffered for many years from Nervous Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Sleeplessness and Nervous Debility" writes John Kelloes, Philadelphia. "We tried many physicians and numerous remedies, but with no results, until I heard of Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure. We bought six boxes, and the results far surpassed our expectations. She now eats and sleeps well, is gaining in flesh, and her color, which had got to be yellow and sickly, is now as fresh as when we were first married, and I tell her that Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure has made her ten years younger."

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman Knows Woman.

ZURICH, KAN., Jan. 31.

I used Wine of Cardui for nervousness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardui to my lady friends during pregnancy and after birth as a tonic. Every lady who takes it finds that it does even more than is claimed for it.

MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the ailments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and cured with Wine of Cardui. Is it any wonder she recommends it? Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it. They know. They have actual experience to prompt them. They spread the tidings from mouth to mouth, telling how Wine of Cardui helps young girls, helps the weak of all ages, helps and cures all womanly ills.

Congressman Bankhead Talks to the Telegram----General Wheeler's Love of Military Life.

Congressman Bankhead, of Alabama, who was a candidate for the Democratic leadership of the House at the beginning of the last session of Congress, was in Greensboro Saturday evening on his return from Washington. In coversation with the Telegram he stated that in the absence of any exciting political contest in Alabama this year he would spend the greater part of his time looking after matters in his own district.

In answer to a question as to Wheeler he stated that the General cared a great deal more more for military affairs than for politics, and that he was prouder than a young boy with his first pair of pants when Congress made him a brigadier-general. So long as General Wheeler remained in politics he was invincible in his politics, he was invincible in his district, being elected to Congress with no opposition. Since his retirement, however, a number of men have evinced a willingness to serve the people, and Mr. Bankhead said there were four active candidates for the nomination, the securing of which means an election.

Congressman Bankhead spoke of the present campaign in North Carolina, expressing his gratfication that the white people of the State are preparing to adopt a suffrage amendment to the constistution. He said the people of his State were watching the fight with interest. "I happen to have the pleasure of an acquaintance with your State chairman, Mr. Simmons," he added, and regard him as one of the the greatest political organizers and campaign managers in the country"

MARKED LINEN.

Some Pretty Specimens of Monograms and Initials.

Every man who lays the least claim to being at all smart this year has his handkerchiefs, if not all his linen articles, decorated with some unique sort of a monogram or initial design, and invariably in color.

Quite the newest thing is to have an intricate monogram worked out in imitation of the designs and colors seen in old missals, the scroll work, say, in bright red, with the monogram in yellow or blue, or the scroll in solid embroidery is laid in, in the finest blue cotton, the initials in white appearing in the centre of the circle. The finished medallion, which would not exceed two inches in diameter, would require a day's hard work by an expert needlewoman.

The man who has decided to face the responsibility of a family crest must conscientiously display it in all the glory of its exact colors in the corner of his handkerchief. This is a far greater nerve strain than bearing an escutcheon on the carriage door, where at least the man inside cannot see it.

A monogram that suggests a Chinese New Year's card is a novelty. This is usually embroidered in a fine cotton of bright Chinese red. As a rule the most fashionable designs are small, the letters being diminutive, even when the scroll is elaborate. Ribbon decorations, flowers, spears of wheat and bowknots are entirely out of date. The plain letters are done in a simple over and over stitch, and the background is a filling of solid "seeds," so fine that they can hardly be distinguished from "flat work" without a microscope.

According to a fashionable New York haberdasher, it is a rare thing for a man to send in an order for "marking" this year without some explicit instructions about the designs. An original idea and the finest work are the demand, and nearly always a man will insist upon having his own idea worked out.

White embroidered monograms are always in good taste, but the orders this year are almost always for combinations of the brilliant primary colors such as the monks used centuries ago in decorating parchment manuscripts.

Only the most exquisitely fine embroidery stitches are used for monogram work, and the strain on the eyes of the needlewoman is said to be even greater than from lace work, because of the fashion for brilliant colors.

French Blood In the Boers.

It appears to be generally taken for granted that the Boers are descended from Dutch ancestors. In the main, this is true, but a considerable amount of French blood also runs in their veins, derived from Huguenot refugees who fled to the cape in 1686 after the revocation of the edict of Nantes. A fair proportion of Germans, with a sprinkling of Poles and Portuguese, also took part in the foundation of the Boer race, so that Boer blood is almost as mixed as the British.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

Vegetarian Shoes.

Vegetarians who are so strict that they do not care to wear an article of clothing into which any animal properties are introduced are catered for in the boot line by a London bootmaker, who is the inventor of a vegetarian shoe. For some years he has been experimenting, and as a result he has produced a boot in the construction of which there is absolutely no paper or leather of any description Not only this, but, according to his assertion, these wear one-fourth longer than leather shoes, and the upper material is always soft and never cracks.

Copper is High.

Several of the largest abandoned copper mines in Eastern Maine will again be operated. The Maine copper mines were in successful operation in 1879, and showed good profits while copper was quoted at 14 cents. The mines could also be operated on a paying basis with copper at 12 cents, but the crash came when the Wisconsin mines put the price of copper down to eight cents. Now that copper is so high, it will be very profitable to mine it.

A Wild, Wild Gold Story.

Norman MacAuley returned from the Klondike recently and was exhibiting to his friends a large golden nugget valued at $64.45, which was taken from the rich property he owns on Gay Gulch. Mr. MacAuley tells of the riches of Claim 46, on the Sulphur, which is known to be the richest mining claim in the world. The owner, whose name Mr. MacAuley could not recall, is a German, and he will before long be the richest of all the rich Klondike mining kings.

The claim is now producing at the rate of $36,000 each day, or, if the mine was worked 300 days a year, $10,800,000 in gold every year. The claim is a wonderfully rich one; it has a pay streak 15 feet thick, which extends the full width of the creek, or over 100 feet. The average per bucket runs as high as $6 a day and the everage output of the mine is 6,000 buckets every day.

The output for this year is figured by many, says Mr. MacAuley, at $30,000,000.—Chicago Record.

Thirty years ago there was only about 25 explosive compounds known. Now there are more than 1,100.
